

Commitment for “Passing the Silicon Valley Coding Interview”

My name is Rand Hazem .

- I understand that this class is intended to help Palestinians currently living in Palestine.
- I testify that I am a Palestinian currently residing in the Palestinian Territories (West Bank or Gaza), with no plans to move abroad for school or work anytime in the next 12 months.
- I commit to dedicating 10-20 hours/week every week from Dec 1 - May 30 to this class and the job hunt. (I understand I might also have to job hunt after May 30 because finding a great job by then is very ambitious.)
- I understand there are only 15 spots available in this class. By signing up for the class, I am taking a spot away from another strong candidate.
- I understand that the class is taught by experienced, busy Silicon Valley software engineers who are volunteering their nights and weekends to help me.
- I promise that I will not drop out of the class due to circumstances such as:
 - Work or school is busy
 - I switched jobs
 - My family needs me
- I understand that this class is valued ~$10k. I am receiving it for free until I get a job I want. If I meet the following conditions, I will pay $1k so that this can be invested in teaching more students. Conditions:
 - I get a job I want at a European or North American startup or tech company
 - I stay at that job (or an equivalent/better job, if I choose to switch jobs) for at least 12 months
 - I earn more than $50k/year
